True Spirit Coalition Turkey Drive

By Tom Morgan

As the holiday season approaches, the True Spirit Coalition will be holding its annual Turkey Drive on Saturday, Nov. 21, at the Brigantine Acme from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Turkey Drive helps to ensure that no Brigantine neighbor goes without a warm, dignified meal during the holidays. Every year, Brigantine residents show what it means to be a true community by supporting the annual Turkey Drive with their food and monetary donations. Representatives of the Brigantine Community Presbyterian Church Food Pantry and the True Spirit Coalition will be on-site at the Brigantine Acme, collecting food and monetary donations. Every can, box, and dollar given goes directly toward providing Thanksgiving dinners and future holiday meals for local families in need. For the Thanksgiving dinners, turkey breasts, jars of gravy, small boxes of mashed potatoes and stuffing, and jellied cranberry sauce are needed. Each year, the Brigantine Church Food Pantry and the True Spirit Coalition come together to provide the fixings for Thanksgiv-

November Happenings

There are a few upcoming activities this month that may be of interest to you. First up is this Saturday's Brigantine VFW Annual Craft Market. The Nov. 14 event runs from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and features a wide selection and variety of crafts, artwork, jewelry, home decor and more.

True Spirit Coalition's Annual Turkey Drive — see the full story above for details.

Saturday, Nov. 21, is Coffee With a Cop. The event will take place at the 8th Street Wawa from 9 to 11 a.m. This event is for building community and strengthening partnerships.

The 9th Annual Friends and Family Holiday Clothing Drive is on now. The clothing drive benefits Angels In Motion and Atlantic City Public School kids. Donated clothes can be dropped off at the Brigantine Presbyterian Church on Saturdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m. or on Monday and Tuesday from 8 a.m. to noon. The drive will continue until Dec. 14.

Saturday, Nov. 21, the Brigantine Elks are hosting their Annual Vendors and Craft Market. The event runs from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will feature local businesses and artisans with handcrafted items, unique gifts, jewelry, crafts and more.

Week #9

Well, Brigantine, two players went a perfect 13-for-13 in Week 9, and just one point separated them in the tiebreaker. Our eligible entries averaged 2.7 missed picks across the Sunday games. Green Bay's win over New England gave our players the most trouble, tripping up 53 entries. The Saints' one-point win over Cleveland caught 35, and the Giants' win over the Eagles fooled 31.

Mike Martin and Elise Cascone both picked every Sunday winner. The Bills beat the Vikings 23-6 on Monday night for a combined 29 points. Mike guessed 44, 15 points away, to take first prize from The Cove. Congratulations, Mike!

Elise's guess of 45 was 16 points away, earning her a free Stock's pound cake from Riptide Bait & Tackle. Great picking, Elise!

Thanks to everyone who played and to our local sponsors. For Week 11, email a clear photo of your entire completed form, including your points guess, to TimesFootballPool@gmail.com by Thursday, Nov. 19, at midnight. Good luck, Brigantine!

ing, Christmas, and Easter dinners to residents enrolled in the local food pantry program. The coalition is made up of dedicated partners and volunteers, including the Community Presbyterian Church of Brigantine, City Hall, St. Thomas the Apostle Church and Temple Beth Shalom, all working side by side to lift up the island's most vulnerable neighbors.

The Brigantine Food Pantry, located at the Brigantine Presbyterian Church, serves anywhere from 100 to 145 families a month, including seniors and shut-ins, proving that there is a need for food donations in Brigantine that most people are not aware of. Behind every bag of groceries handed out is a story — a senior on a fixed income, a family facing a tough month. The pantry can always use food and household items, including toiletries, milk, bread, eggs, cereals, canned goods, fresh and frozen meals. Every donation helps. Monetary donations are especially powerful because they allow the pantry to buy in bulk and stretch every dollar further. Every gift, no matter how small, truly makes a difference. Those seeking assistance can contact the Community Presbyterian Church by calling 609-266-7942 Mon-

BCS Steps for Vets Event

By Mindy Pomatto

On Wednesday, Nov. 4, Brigantine Community School celebrated its annual Steps for Vets event, bringing together students, staff, veterans, families, and local businesses for a truly special day of gratitude, remembrance, and community pride.

The day began with a warm welcome for our veterans, who arrived at the school with a special police escort provided by the Brigantine Police Department. Their involvement helped set the tone for a day filled with respect and appreciation.

A patriotic opening ceremony followed, featuring the presentation of the colors by the Atlantic City High School Junior ROTC, followed by a beautiful rendition of the National Anthem performed by our school choir. Our eighth-grade American Sign Language (ASL) students signed the Pledge of Allegiance, adding a meaningful touch to the ceremony. Last Salute then presented a moving flag-folding ceremony, sharing the significance and symbolism behind this treasured military tradition. It was a powerful way to begin a day dedicated to honoring those who have served our country.

Following the opening ceremony, students and staff participated in an Honor Walk, completing five laps around the school track—approximately one mile—in honor of the brave men and women who have served our country. Adding to the patriotic atmosphere, the Brigantine Fire Department displayed a magnificent, giant American flag above the track, creating a breathtaking sight as students walked beneath it during their tribute to our veterans.

The walk also featured special displays, including a boat brought by the New Jersey State Police and two military vehicles provided by Last Salute. These displays added another meaningful element to the event, giving students an opportunity to see the vehicles up close as

What Price Makes It Worth Waiting for the Spring? You have a listing that's been sitting, showings have slowed down and the seller isn't interested in 'another' price reduction and suggests that maybe we should take it off the market and try again in the spring. While this strategy isn't necessarily a bad one since spring is usually a busier season, especially for second-home buyers, it could come with "opportunity costs" as well as real carrying costs. In a seller survey by Realtor.com, sellers were evenly split on what they would do if their property didn't sell within their timeline. Thirty-five percent of sellers would reduce the price; 34% would wait out the market, and 29% would take the listing off the market. As winter approached, the housing report found that 20% had experienced price reductions. It can be difficult to forecast to a seller what the market will bring in early spring. Often a seller contemplates if they sell for "x" now versus waiting for the spring to sell for "y." Let's find out if a higher price months from now is a better outcome financially. That could mean five more months of mortgage, taxes, insurance, utilities and upkeep. But a mortgage payment isn't always a 'cost of waiting' since it reduces the loan value. However, if a seller has already bought another property, then they are carrying an empty property at "x" amount per month in addition to the associated cost of ownership with their new home. Another seller might have a much lower interest rate or no mortgage at all and, thus, has some flexibility about timelines. By waiting, though, they may face more competition in the spring. Spring should bring a new wave of buyers, but that doesn't mean that you, the seller, should wait. The decision for sellers is to see if the spring sale price they will "need" will just about break even, or if they might encounter lower offers or more concessions. If you are in this situation, it's time to create a plan with your agent to determine whether it's better to reduce the price, hold steady or relaunch in the spring. Get out a No. 2 pencil and a pad of paper and do some math to determine all of the costs associated with waiting versus reducing the price, and don't forget the opportunity costs! What else could you be doing with the sale proceeds from now until then? We specialize in determining which strategy may work for your situation, so give us a call, get out your pen and paper, and let's start crunching some numbers…

day through Wednesday, 8 a.m. to noon (please leave a message). Donations, both food and monetary, are also accepted during those hours.

Food Pantry Coordinator Amy Knecht stated, "The food pantry supplies food and support to over 100 local families every month. During the holidays that number goes up, and we try to make sure that those families, seniors and shut-ins get a nice Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter dinner. The support from the local community is truly amazing, and we really appreciate all of the donations that allow us to assist local residents in need, especially during the holidays."

This Thanksgiving, when you shop at Acme, consider adding a few extra items to your cart or dropping a small donation in the mail. If you plan on donating your free Acme turkey, consider donating a turkey breast, a small turkey or even some frozen lasagna instead, due to limited freezer space. Any turkey and food donations can be dropped off at Community Presbyterian Church, before noon on weekdays or on Saturdays.

A Thank You From the Community Presbyterian Church

A heartfelt thank you to all of our volunteers, patrons, and sponsors who helped make our Election Night Turkey Dinner a wonderful success. Your generosity, dedication, and support created a warm evening of food, fellowship, and community. We are grateful for each and every one of you and for the many ways you help strengthen our church family. God bless and thank you!

Garden Club Fundraising Appeal

The flagship activity of the Brigantine Garden Club is to care for and maintain more than 20 decorative planter pots and 80 large garden beds throughout the island, creating spaces that add beauty, tranquility, and community spirit for both residents and visitors.

You may have already noticed the recently updated signage displayed in many of our planter pots, including those at the promenade and boat launch.* We are now preparing for the next phase of our beautification initiative: replacing and updating the signage for the remaining 80 large garden beds located throughout Brigantine.

As a volunteer-driven organization, we rely on the generosity of the City of Brigantine and voluntary donations to support our projects. We respectfully invite our Brigantine businesses to consider becoming supporters and helping us reach our fundraising goal of $3,000. We are appealing to our business community for donations up to $100 to help fund the new garden bed signage program.

You can help and make a difference with a donation mailed to: Brigantine Garden Club; 3605 Bayshore Avenue; Brigantine, NJ 08203. Questions? Email brigantinegardenclubnj@gmail.com. Together we can continue to promote the beautification of the island of Brigantine.

On behalf of the Brigantine Garden Club, thank you for helping keep Brigantine beautiful for residents, visitors, and future generations. Visit us on Facebook.

*Our planter signs are currently hibernating in storage during the harsh winter.

Chamber Chatter

As the holiday season approaches, the Brigantine Chamber of Commerce remains committed to supporting our local businesses and the people who make our island community so special. We're proud to recognize the businesses and individuals whose dedication helps make Brigantine a wonderful place to live, work, and visit.

This week, we'd also like to recognize and thank all of our veterans for their service and sacrifice. Veterans Day is an important reminder of the courage, commitment, and sacrifices of those who have served our country. To all veterans, especially those in our Brigantine community, we extend our sincere gratitude.

Chamber Member Spotlight — Barth Tax & Financial Services

This week, we're pleased to feature Barth Tax & Financial Services, another proud Gold Sponsor of the Brigantine Chamber of Commerce. This family-owned and operated business has built lasting relationships with generations of families while helping clients with their taxes, investments, and financial planning. Here's their story, in their own words.

Barth Tax & Financial Services — Where Clients Become Family!

"When I started Barth Tax & Financial Services, my goal was simple: work hard, treat people right, and help families feel confident about their financial futures. Over the years, what started as a business has become so much more. We've had the privilege of helping generations of families with their taxes, investments, and financial planning, building friendships and relationships that go far beyond the office. We've watched children grow up, start families of their own, and become clients themselves. We've celebrated milestones, shared stories, and been there through life's ups and downs. To me, that's what makes this business so special. As a family-owned and operated business, we've always believed in doing things the old-fashioned way — knowing our clients by name, answering the phone, being there when they need us, and treating everyone like family. And there's no place quite like Brigantine! From the beautiful beaches to the familiar faces and neighbors who become lifelong friends, this little island is they made their way around the track. Each step of the walk was a small but meaningful way to say thank you to those who have sacrificed so much for our freedom. We are incredibly grateful to our police, fire, and military community partners for helping make this day even more memorable.

Following the walk, students proudly lined the school hallways, waving American flags, cheering, and presenting handmade cards as our veterans made their way to the auditorium. It was a heartwarming sight and a powerful reminder of how much our veterans mean to our school and community.

The celebration continued with a special assembly featuring heartfelt tributes, videos, and an opportunity for students to hear directly from veterans about their experiences and service.

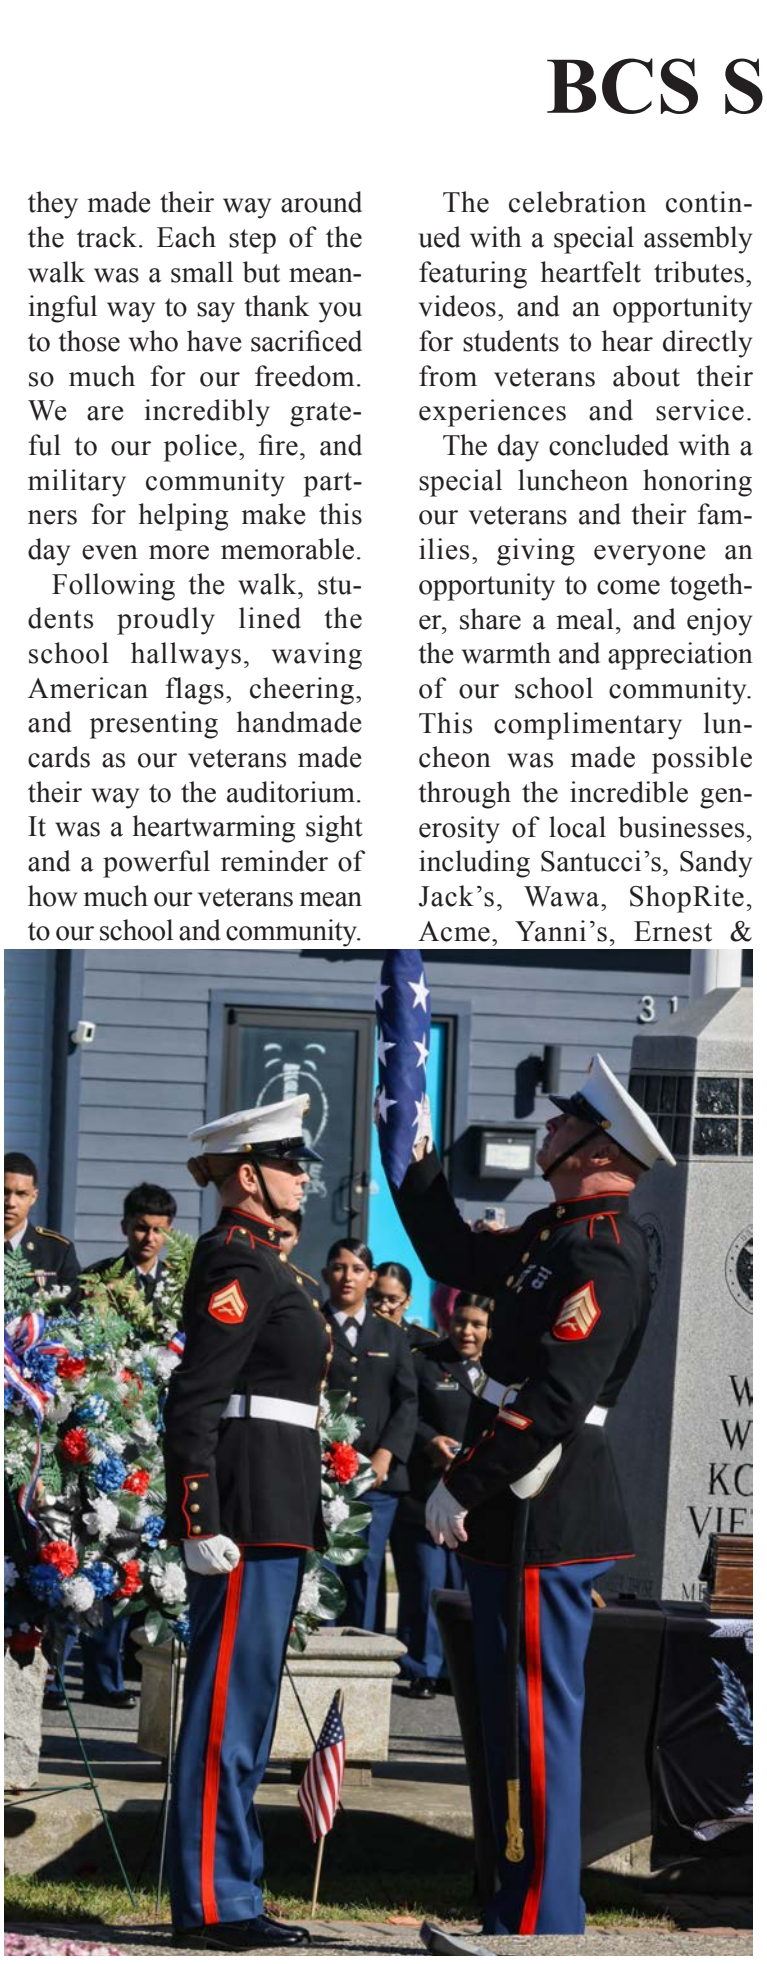

The day concluded with a special luncheon honoring our veterans and their families, giving everyone an opportunity to come together, share a meal, and enjoy the warmth and appreciation of our school community. This complimentary luncheon was made possible through the incredible generosity of local businesses, including Santucci's, Sandy Jack's, Wawa, ShopRite, Acme, Yanni's, Ernest & Son, Josie Kelly's Public House, and AtlantiCare.

A very special thank you goes to the Brigantine Elks Veterans Committee, whose members went above and beyond to provide much of the luncheon, from preparing hot food to supplying drinks, plates, and all the little details that made the afternoon so memorable. Their generosity extended beyond the meal, as they also provided thoughtful gift bags for each veteran to take home—a wonderful gesture of appreciation that made the day even more special.

Our Student Ambassador Team also had the opportunity to give back by helping serve our veterans and their families. It was more than just serving a meal—it was an opportunity for our young people to show kindness, respect, and appreciation through their actions.

Adding an extra touch of sweetness to the afternoon, our PTA generously provided a wonderful assortment of delicious desserts, while our school coffee cart was on hand with our Brigantine Bucs serving up delicious hot specialty beverages. These thoughtful contributions helped make the luncheon even more welcoming and enjoyable for our honored guests.

Beyond honoring our veterans, Steps for Vets teaches our students an important lesson: gratitude is more than something we say; it's something we show through the way we treat others and the choices we make every day.

Through the generosity of our students, families, and community, this year's event also reached its fundraising goal of $3,000 to support local veterans and veteran organizations.

We would also like to extend a heartfelt thank you to Brigantine Living for their incredible support throughout this event. From helping spread the word and promote Steps for Vets to being there to capture and document the special moments of the day, their involvement meant so much. We are truly grateful for their enthusiasm, generosity, and continued dedication to celebrating the people and events that make our community so special.

Steps for Vets is so much more than a school event. It is a beautiful example of what makes Brigantine such a special place. From our youngest students to our local businesses, volunteers, first responders, and veterans, everyone played a part in making this day meaningful.

To our veterans and their families, thank you for your service, your sacrifices, and the example you set for future generations. We hope you felt the love, respect, and appreciation of an entire community.

Brigantine may be a little island, but it certainly has a big heart. And on this special day, that heart was beating for our veterans.

Council Update

By Mayor Vince Sera

Thank You for Your Trust and Support

I want to thank everyone who took the time to vote in this year's election and for the tremendous support Mike Riordan, Neil Kane, and I received.

Although our election was uncontested, we had a very strong voter turnout. We were encouraged by the number of residents who came out to vote and truly appreciate the confidence you have placed in our team. It means a lot to all three of us.

Serving as Mayor is something I take great pride in, and I'm grateful for the opportunity to continue working with Mike and Neil on behalf of Brigantine. We have a great team of people in this city who care about our community and want to help make it the best it can be. I'm proud of what we've accomplished together and look forward to continuing that work.

We know there is still plenty to do, and we remain committed to working hard, listening to our residents, and making decisions that are in the best interest of our community.

Leroy's Corner:

A Praise for the Sun Spots

Dear fellow cats of Brigantine and beyond,

I have always been a firm believer in appreciating the small things. That is why I have a simple recommendation and reminder for your daily comfort: appreciate the sunny spots in the house. They are warm, luxurious, and best of all, they move around the house so you can enjoy a new one every few hours.

Begin the morning by checking the bedroom floor. Early sunlight makes an excellent spot for a gentle stretch, followed by a thoughtful nap. As the sun climbs, inspect the living room rug or the windowsill. You may wish to rotate yourself occasionally so each side receives the proper amount of warmth.

In the afternoon, the sun might visit the kitchen floor, a favorite chair, or that one patch of carpet your humans keep trying to use. Settle in confidently. They can walk around you. As evening approaches, look for the last golden spot near the window and enjoy it while it lasts. A little purring is entirely appropriate.

It is also important to ensure your humans admire you as your fur glows in the warmth of the sun. There is no sight more wonderful than a cat in the sun, highlighting every beautiful marking and stripe. I think that's something we can all agree on. It is also expected for your human to treat you to pets and brushes while you are basking in the sun.

Remember, a sun spot is not merely a warm patch on the floor. It is a small daily gift. Take your time, find the coziest position, and appreciate every ray before it wanders away.

Stay Whiskered,
Leroy

PSS. PSS. Dear Hooper and Brody: Good looking out for Christmas and Thanksgiving costumes. I had not even thought of that. I will be sure to let my humans know that I will not be turned into an orange Santa Cat this year.

Army Veteran Tommy Fryar was presented with a Veterans Day appreciation card for his devoted service to our country by John Fitzpatrick of the Brigantine Elks Veterans Service Committee. Tommy is one of twenty resident veterans visited by the committee at the Eastern Pines facility in AC.

Ken LeFavre presented this award of a mother whale with her calf to Mayor Vince Sera for his efforts in protecting the shoreline in the wake of the recent nor'easter. (In a previous edition, Ken was misidentified as former Mayor Phil Guenther. The award was presented at Phil Guenther's home.)

Brigantine Garden Club

by Phyllis Glomb

Hi, my name is Cinnamon. I am a Monarch butterfly. I was brought into a house in Brigantine, NJ, when I was just an egg and raised by a nice young lady. She fed me fresh milkweed every day; I'm very picky, and that is the only thing I will eat. In her house, I was safe from predators, such as birds, tachinid flies, and pesticides. In about three weeks, I had molted four times and had grown to full size. Now I am ready to build a chrysalis. First I make my button. That is a silk round disc from which I hang my pupa, which is quite gorgeous if I do say so myself. Then I do a J hang, so described because my black, white, and yellow striped body hangs like the letter J, whatever that is. Finally, I go into a dark, warm place where indescribable changes occur to my body. I can feel something growing out of my back. Whatever could it be? First it is white but later it turns black and orange. Maybe it's a Halloween costume. Wow, it's getting tight in here. There it goes. My jade and shiny gold chrysalis has turned clear, and it begins to split open. These large, gorgeous wings have grown on me. Now I must hang here to dry. After a short while, I pump them to get them ready for flight. They grow even larger. Finally, the lady takes me outside to her backyard and takes me out of the cage. I look around. There is a whole beautiful world out there for me to explore. Should I leave my caretaker or stay here? She tells me to go. OK, I will. Oh my gosh, look at the world from up here.

That is not the end of my story. I am a fifth-generation butterfly. That means I must take a long flight to… where? Mexico? Are you kidding me? And I can't mate before I go? I must wait until spring. Oh, why me? Oh, well. I meet up with many other Monarchs all with the same idea, so we form a support group. Safety in numbers. Hope my GPS is working. More and more butterflies join us in what I hear called the Great Migration South. Finally we arrive in Texas — almost there. Boy, am I tired. We rested overnight in trees along the way. Soon we arrive at a mountain in Mexico, and here we will spend the long winter.

Once spring arrives, we are expected to leave and head North again. I finally get to mate — yippee! I lay my eggs on young milkweed plants along the way. Oh, I am getting so tired. I am very old and weary.

Do Microplastics Worsen Your Heart Attack Risk?

I want to share some research that really caught my attention. Scientists studied blood taken directly from the arteries around the heart in 61 adults. Some were having a STEMI, the most severe type of heart attack, where an artery becomes completely blocked. Others had stable heart disease, and some had normal arteries. The difference was striking. Tiny plastic particles, called micro- and nanoplastics, showed up in about 84% of the heart attack patients, compared with 40% of people with stable heart disease and about 32% of people with healthy arteries. Heart attack patients also carried more types of plastic, and the highest amounts sat right at the spot where blood flow was blocked. Polyethylene, the plastic found in grocery bags and food packaging, was the most common. Smoking was the strongest predictor of plastic in the blood, raising the odds nearly sixfold. Air pollution added to the problem too. Every person who both smoked and breathed high levels of fine particle pollution had plastic in their coronary blood.

So what are these particles actually doing in there? A separate review of lab and animal research helps explain it. The smallest particles can slip past the body's natural barriers and travel to the heart and blood vessels, often carrying chemical additives and pollutants along for the ride. Once there, they injure the endothelium, the thin, smooth lining that keeps your arteries healthy. They also create oxidative stress, where unstable molecules overwhelm your antioxidant defenses and damage your cells. At the same time, they lower nitric oxide, a natural compound that keeps your arteries relaxed and flexible. Without enough of it, your vessels stiffen and circulation suffers. The particles also keep your immune system switched on far longer than it should be. Over time, that chronic inflammation helps build fatty plaque inside artery walls and weakens the protective cap covering it. When that cap gets thin and fragile, the plaque can rupture and form a clot that blocks blood flow to the heart or brain.

The good news is that many of your biggest sources of exposure are within your control. I always tell people not to try to change everything in one day. Pick one habit and build from there. A great place to start is a quality water filter designed to remove microplastics, since many standard pitcher filters can't catch the smallest particles. Build your meals around fresh, minimally processed foods, and choose loose produce over wrapped items. If you live near busy roads or deal with wildfire smoke, a HEPA air purifier can help. And if you smoke, quitting is one of the most powerful things you can do for your heart. Cutting back on seed oils high in linoleic acid, such as soybean, corn and canola oil, may also reduce one source of inflammation. Pair that with leafy greens, berries, regular movement

The Railway Children By E. Nesbit

Chapter VI: Saviours of the Train

The mouth of the tunnel was some way from Three Chimneys, so Mother let them take their lunch with them in a basket. And the basket would do to bring the cherries back in if they found any. She also lent them her silver watch so that they should not be late for tea. Peter's Waterbury had taken it into its head not to go since the day when Peter dropped it into the water-butt. And they started. When they got to the top of the cutting, they leaned over the fence and looked down to where the railway lines lay at the bottom of what, as Phyllis said, was exactly like a mountain gorge.

"If it wasn't for the railway at the bottom, it would be as though the foot of man had never been there, wouldn't it?"

The sides of the cutting were of grey stone, very roughly hewn. Indeed, the top part of the cutting had been a little natural glen that had been cut deeper to bring it down to the level of the tunnel's mouth. Among the rocks, grass and flowers grew, and seeds dropped by birds in the crannies of the stone had taken root and grown into bushes and trees that overhung the cutting. Near the tunnel was a flight of steps leading down to the line—just wooden bars roughly fixed into the earth—a very steep and narrow way, more like a ladder than a stair.

"We'd better get down," said Peter; "I'm sure the cherries would be quite easy to get at from the side of the steps. You remember it was there we picked the cherry blossoms that we put on the rabbit's grave."

So they went along the fence towards the little swing gate that is at the top of these steps. And they were almost at the gate when Bobbie said:—

"Hush. Stop! What's that?"

"That" was a very odd noise indeed—a soft noise, but quite plainly to be heard through the sound of the wind in tree branches, and the hum and whir of the telegraph wires. It was a sort of rustling, whispering sound. As they listened it stopped, and then it began again.

And this time it did not stop, but it grew louder and more rustling and rumbling.

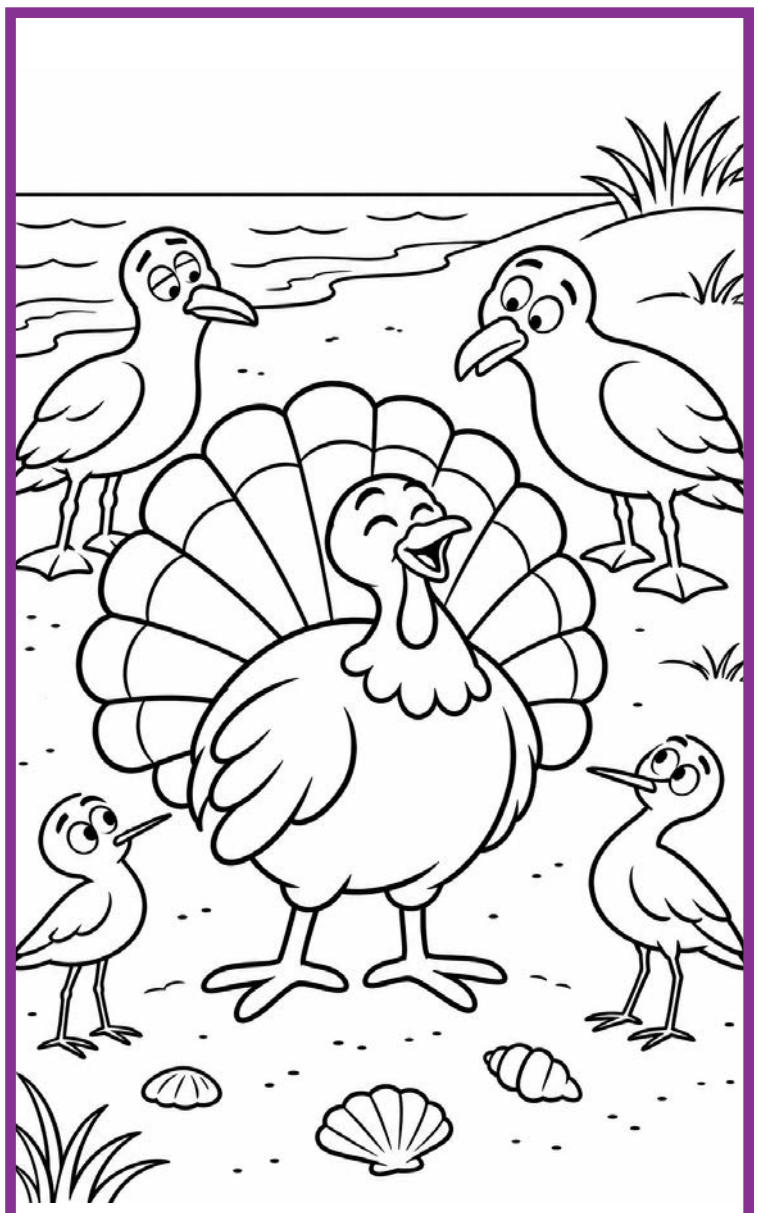

"Look"—cried Peter, suddenly—"the tree over there!"

The tree he pointed at was one of those that have rough grey leaves and white flowers. The berries, when they come, are bright scarlet, but if you pick them, they disappoint you by turning black before you get them home. And, as Peter pointed, the tree was moving—not just the way trees ought to move when the wind blows through them, but all in one piece, as though it were a live creature and were walking down the side of the cutting.

"It's moving!" cried Bobbie. "Oh, look! and so are the others. It's like the woods in Macbeth."

"It's magic," said Phyllis, breathlessly. "I always knew this railway was enchanted."

It really did seem a little like magic. For all the trees for about twenty yards of the opposite bank seemed to be slowly walking down towards the railway line, the tree with the grey leaves bringing up the rear like some old shepherd driving a flock of green sheep.

Weekly Fishing Report

by Captain Andy Grossman

The chilly air is moving in and so are the striped bass. We have had several stripers caught off the Brigantine NJ surf and it's only going to heat up. The schools of stripers are just starting to make their way to the local waters and hopefully you will have a rod in the water when they do get here. If you are not sure on how to do it just stop by and we will set you up and show how to do it.

The bluefin tuna have also decided to make a showing and you don't have to go that far to find them and we are loaded up with ballyhoo and anything else you will need to have some sushi sitting on your table.

Black Friday will be here in two weeks and if you are looking to save some money that will be the time to do it. Starting on Black Friday we'll be adding 10% to all gift cards purchased and that will continue until Christmas Eve. Most items will be on sale as we all get excited about starting our Holiday Shopping. Stop by and see how much you can save :) The shop will be open every day all day including on Thanksgiving when we always get those anglers whos wives throw them out of the house so they can get their holiday meal prepared in peace and quiet. We will be open from 6:00 am to 10:00 am on that day.

For all the latest fishing reports, info , and pics you can find us on Facebook at Riptide Bait and Tackle , on Twitter @RiptideBait , on Instagram @Riptide911 and on TikTok @Riptidebnt .

THE BIG BIRTHDAY BOOK

By Garrett Touhill

Ladies and gentlemen of Brigantine, this week I want to take a moment to remind you of one of the great and long-standing traditions we have here at the Times: the Big Birthday Book. The Times Birthday Book contains the names of hundreds of residents here in Brigantine along with their birthdays. Each week, at the end of this column, we feature the upcoming week's birthdays.

It's a simple thing, but a great way to connect as a community. I can't tell you how many times I've looked through the Birthday book and remembered someone's birthday just in time to send them a text or give them a call. I'm sure many of you have had the same experience.

Anyway, the point of this week's column is to invite you, if you have not done so already, to submit your birthday and the birthdays of your loved ones to the Times Big Birthday Book. Just email brigantinetimes@gmail.com or text 609-266-2486. It's a great tradition.

And that brings us to this week's birthdays! Happy Birthday! Nov. 13- Karen Tansey, Gail Donohue and Bob Wagenheim 14- Matt Fulmer and Ashley Carazzoni 15- Ed Wilkins, Eric Schreiner, George Moore, the dad, Norm Wagenheim, George Lawaich, Steve Donohue and Kayla Brown. 16- Anthony 'Worm' Walsh, Becky Barrett and Don Miller 17- Kathy Morris, Diane Slotkin and Lee Wilkins. 18- Melinda Wilson, Kelly Westcoat, Linda Schumacker, Andrew Noble, and Diana Hays. -Linda and Bob Schu anniversary 19- Bonnie Crossland and James Sharp

Brigantine's Finest: Carter Doorley

By Roseann Smith

As of this writing, it has been 2,365 days since Brigantine's Carter Doorley started surfing consecutively. Not missing one day. Not during severe snowstorms, wicked Atlantic Nor'easters, frigid cold, or desert-like heat. And to think, it all started as a joke! And it started during COVID-19. "I started surfing at five years old, but I didn't surf every day," says Doorley. "During COVID-19, I didn't want to stay inside all day. Everything was shut down; there was no place to go, so I went to the ocean to surf." One day led to another, and then another. Carter soon put together 100 days. The joke was: can Carter surf every day until school started up again? The answer? You Bet!

Soon, local publications such as the Brigantine Times, Shore Local News Magazine, and The Press of Atlantic City noticed Carter Doorley. The nine-year-old boy from Brigantine, New Jersey, was racking up back-to-back days of surfing and drawing public attention. That's when Doorley decided to turn his favorite pastime into community service.

About a year in, The Funny Farm Rescue and Sanctuary in Mays Landing, New Jersey, needed funds to support a litter of cats dropped at their doorstep. Carter Doorley stepped up and, through his commitment to surfing, raised money for The Funny Farm, securing the funds needed to find good homes for the abandoned cats. That marked the beginning of charity fundraising.

Over time, Carter has raised impressive amounts of money for local charities, including the Brigantine food pantry and The Food Bank of South Jersey in Egg Harbor Township, New Jersey. He has raised money every year since he started surfing.

Soon, the young surfer from Brigantine gained national attention, being featured in People Magazine and Surfer Magazine. "At first I thought the publicity was insane," explains Doorley. "I couldn't believe it. I just kept surfing."

Doorley kept surfing — not only in Brigantine but in large parts of the United States. "I've surfed in the Delaware River, Lake Michigan, Wisconsin, California, and the eastern seaboard from Massachusetts to North Carolina." Doorley isn't satisfied with that. He hopes to surf in Indonesia and Cape Town, South Africa. "I want to surf the entire earth," says Carter. "I want to go anywhere and everywhere and just surf."

Now 15, Doorley has found another way to serve the Brigantine community. This past summer, Carter helped Brigantine's Primal Surf Shop teach adult veterans how to surf. One such veteran was a blind gentleman. "That was the coolest thing ever," states Doorley. "Helping that man learn how to feel the surfboard, showing him where to put his hands, and then seeing him surf."

Carter Doorley is a school-choice student and a sophomore at Ocean City High School in Ocean City, New Jersey. There, he surfs on the school's surf team and takes a woodshop class he thoroughly enjoys. "I like my woodshop class because it's hands-on. I work with electric saws, table saws, and a radial arm saw."

That's why Carter Doorley is Brigantine's Finest!

Surely Goodness and Mercy Shall Follow Me…

Faith Hope Charity by Anthony Tori

"Surely Goodness and Mercy Shall Follow Me…" The title for this week's article comes from the inspiring ending of David's popular psalm. His poetic words of thankfulness convey a life-long appreciation to God Almighty for being his guardian and caregiver through his very troubled past. Psalm 23 is the all-time favorite to read at public ceremonies because it reflects our same trials and blessings in the rearview mirror of life. This ancient passage has carried a timeless message of divine confidence through many generations of those who still share his same Faith today.

There are many expressions of faith throughout the Brigantine community, some highly visible and others carried out quietly, without fanfare or public recognition. Among the latter is a ministry that takes local residents beyond the familiar surroundings of our island and into the Atlantic County Justice Facility in Mays Landing. These faithful workers share the Gospel and offer spiritual encouragement to incarcerated men and women of our neighborhoods. There are many Brigantine residents from my particular congregation who participate in this outreach, and they are not alone. Men and women associated with these same compassionate ministries represent a broader expression of commitment that extends well beyond any individual or congregation. And, we can't help but admire the efforts of every one of them.

Their purpose is a meaningful one: to bring a message of hope, forgiveness, faith and the possibility of spiritual renewal to individuals whose lives are passing through difficult and uncertain circumstances. Such a ministry requires more than a willingness to volunteer. It calls for having a connection in common with similar needs which confirms their own personal experience of God's Goodness and Mercy. Behind these correctional facility walls are individuals with personal histories, families, struggles and futures still to be determined. A thoughtful talk, a passage of Scripture, a prayer or simply the willingness to listen can offer encouragement where it is greatly needed. The Bible confirms this responsibility in more than a dozen ways, especially since "the lost sheep" is nowhere to be found. This single sermon does well to describe the prison ministry because it refers to the same need for saving grace, and the relentless one-on-one seeker who loves our soul.

The Atlantic County Justice Facility maintains an organized religious services program, with volunteers serving under the direction of its chaplain. Such outreach is part of a broader commitment to addressing the spiritual needs of those in custody. It is worth recognizing that our community has members who "Follow" those who are eager to know more. Their individual identities are not the focus of this news article. Rather, it is the collective example they represent. Whether through a church congregation, a community outreach program, or a personal commitment to helping others, these efforts reflect the pattern of Faith, Hope and Charity ahead of recognition, and the needs of others ahead of personal convenience.

Promenade Update: City Requests County Action Following Storm Damage

The Sept. 26 nor'easter caused significant damage to the Brigantine Promenade, including the destruction of two beach access ramps and damage to other structural components. The city has formally contacted Atlantic County Executive Dennis Levinson requesting a clear plan and timeline for inspecting the damage and moving forward with repairs.

The Promenade is owned by Atlantic County, which is also responsible for the recent restoration project. Several items identified by the city during a June 11 walkthrough with county officials remained unfinished before the storm.

The city's preliminary assessment identified several areas of storm damage, including:

Complete destruction of the recently replaced wooden beach access ramp at the north end and the concrete beach access ramp at 11th Street North.

Damage to the ocean-side railing and bulkhead cap.

Apparent settlement of the concrete walkway near 13th Street North.

Several light poles displaced from their foundations.

Damage to railing at the 10th Street North beach ramp and potential damage to the ocean-side timber sheet piles.

This is a preliminary visual assessment. A comprehensive inspection by county engineering professionals is needed to determine the full extent of the damage and evaluate the condition of the Promenade and bulkhead system.

The City Engineer has contacted County Engineering and offered to meet on-site to review the damage. The city has also submitted a preliminary damage estimate to Atlantic County's Office of Emergency Management.

In a Nov. 4 letter, the city formally requested confirmation that the county had received the damage assessment and asked for information about its plans and timeline for a comprehensive inspection, immediate safety measures, storm-related repairs, restoration of the damaged beach access ramps, and completion of outstanding work from the recent restoration project.

As of the date of that letter, the city had not received a response outlining the county's plans or timeline.

The Promenade is more than a recreational walkway. It is also part of an important coastal protection system that helps protect Brigantine Avenue and surrounding county infrastructure. The city will continue to press for answers and a clear plan from Atlantic County and will keep residents informed as more information becomes available.

Community Meeting on Flood Risk and Flood Insurance

The City of Brigantine invites residents to attend an informative meeting on flood risk and flood insurance on Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Understanding flood risks and available insurance options is important for homeowners in a coastal community like Brigantine. This meeting will provide residents with information and resources to better understand their flood exposure, make informed decisions about coverage, and learn about steps they can take to protect their homes and property from future storms and flooding.

Meeting Details

Date: Tuesday, Dec. 1, 2026

Time: 5 p.m.

Location: Brigantine Community Center

Address: 265 42nd Street South, Brigantine, NJ

Homeowners interested in attending can register by emailing info@riskreductionplus.com.

We encourage residents to take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about flood risks and the resources available to help protect their homes and property.

Honoring Our Veterans

By Kelly Leyman

Who is that old guy with the Veterans baseball cap?

He has seen the worst and seen the best. Yeah, he's a Viet Nam vet.

Don't ignore him. He earned your respect. He fought hard. He was only a kid thrust into a war.

This GI Joe saw things you can't imagine. He saw his buddies fall but answered the call.

There was no parade for these Joes.

But today he stands tall wearing his veterans cap – proud of himself and his country.

Surely Goodness and Mercy Shall Follow Me…

recorded in the Book of Acts describes a noteworthy prison miracle but in a totally opposite scenario. In short, Paul and Silas became political hostages for being Jews in a foreign town. They were jailed with their feet locked in stocks and hands chained to the walls inside a heavily guarded inner chamber. They were among many others in this dark dungeon, but these two men had a special divine touch welling up inside them. During the night, they began praying and singing, when suddenly there was a ground-shaking earthquake. The prison doors flew open and everyone's chains fell off. The head jailer was ready to fall on his sword, thinking everyone had escaped, but Paul shouted, "Don't harm yourself, we are all here." His immediate reply was: "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" What happens next? Find it in chapter 16. This story is definitely worth reading, especially for the final outcome. It builds our Faith to know: "Surely Goodness and Mercy Shall Follow Me All the Days of My Life."

Thoughts Are Things

Common Sense Generosity & Compassion

Self Help

EDUCATION VS. CONDITIONING! Here in our Human Being, our Human Journey & Adventure, we experience many kinds of information gathering, running the gamut from fundamental education – reading, writing & arithmetic – to higher education, on the job experience, Life experience, and cultural, or social conditioning.

Conditioning is Influence – the influence that rubs off on us, and is infused into us, by exposure to, and interaction with the people, places, and things we grow up with & around, such as parents, family members, school mates, teachers, religious congregations & indoctrinations, as well as social & cultural activities that we participate in, and are exposed to, spanning our entire Lifetime, but most importantly while we're very, very young.

To be aware of the nuance between fundamental, science, math, world history, literature, language & music, dance & the fine arts, and superstition, cradle stories, old wives tales (sorry old wives), cliché beliefs, and monkey see, monkey do habits of social & cultural activity is all it takes to enjoy both, without getting lost in either state. If we were talking about food & nutrition, we could say one state delivers substantial mental & emotional sustenance, as the other delivers more empty calories, and indigestion.

THE INDOCTRINATION OF A LIFETIME! Imagine if we had been indoctrinated from early childhood with the understanding that This Thing Called Life, is now, and always has been its own, most perfect reward & gift divine, and that Life Itself is always for me, never ever against me, and that this insight & understanding is the absolute, and undeniable truth, The Truth That Sets Us Free.

Imagine how sweet & uplifting our Life & Times on this miraculous planet Earth would be, had we been taught & reassured when we were very, very young that, There Is No Punishing God, and that all that fire & brimstone nonsense, that effects us & affects us even today, here in the 21st Century, is nonsense & superstition, created & disseminated by people who, through no particular fault of their own, were also indoctrinated, generation upon generation, to the degree that everyone has some of these negative, limiting, and unpleasant memes floating around in their conscious & subconscious mind.

Obviously mankind, has been influenced by ages past where daily Life was filled with misery, turmoil, lack, and disease because there was no modern science & technology available to alleviate these scourges & misfortunes.

Certainly hopes & dreams of a better Life, somewhere else, sometime in the future were plentiful in those ancient hearts & minds, but here, today, especially in the developed world, how does the idea that Life on Earth is somehow less than, rather more than a heavenly opportunity & experience to be embraced & cherished with every Breath we take?

FALL IN LOVE WITH LIFE! Don't wait until it's too late, and by too late we mean, too late, to appreciate This Thing Called Life, which is, in fact the heaven we were all promised, but it's real, and it's unfolding right here, and right now, right where you are, with every Breath you take.

If you'd like to hold onto your superstitions & dogma, no matter what school of spiritual, or religious rhetoric you adhere to, be my guest. We have free will, and there's no judgment – at least where the Almighty is concerned – if you do, or you don't participate in one of the many organized spiritual traditions, here on planet Earth.

But here we remind you, Dear Reader, that in those final days, that we will all come to, at some point in time, This Thing Called Life, this Breath, this Human Body, this Heart, Soul & Mind will suddenly come into focus, as you realize that there's no hocus pocus coming to save you, and that what you've had, all these years, was absolutely perfect, absolutely heaven on Earth, and absolutely the Greatest Romance you've ever known, but let slip through your fingers.

ABSOLUTE PERFECTION! So Absolute Perfection does exist, and you are now, and have always been Living in this State of Grace, since you took your first Breath, so many years ago.

It might take some time to consciously let go of the doubt, fear, frustration, anxiety & superstitions that have become part of your psychological make-up, but once you get the message, and feel the relief of your True Nature & True Position in Life uplifting you, and securing you in all your affairs, you will come to Live & Breathe with certainty, simplicity, insight, understanding & Love all day, every day, morning, afternoon & evening – From Here To Eternity. (Next Week, More Thoughts)

Is The Best Help

AFFIRMATIONS! (Mental & Emotional Exercise) Today I Understand & Realize That My Creator Is Not A Man With A Long White Beard, But The Very Essence & Energy Of My Life, Living & Breathing Within Inside Me, As Me, With Every Breath I Take. Today I Give Thanks, And Appreciate This Liberating, Uplifting, Composing, And Harmonizing Perspective In My Life, As I Learn To Live With The Understanding That There Is No Punishing God, And No One's Out To Get Me, Except For My Own Doubt, Fear, Frustration & Anxiety Which Is Not Real, And Not Wanted In My Life. Today I Humbly & Gratefully Live In This State Of Grace, Where My Heart, Soul, And Mind Are Filled With Awe & Wonder As Each Sacred Day Unfolds Sweetly, Perfectly, Gently & Magnificently For Myself, And My Loved Ones, 22,000 Times A Day, With Every Breath I Take. ALL Is Well.

Today I Rest Coolly & Calmly In The Absolute Knowledge That This Life Is For Me, Never Ever Against Me, As I Breathe Consciously These Sacred Breaths Of Life, My Proof Positive That The Almighty, Who Loves Me With A Love Unspeakable, Lives, Breathes, And Has Its Being, Within Inside Me, As Me, And I Embrace & Adore This Thing Called Life With Every Cell, Fiber, Atom & Molecule Of My Being. Who Knew This Scary Fact?

Flight attendants and pilots had the highest and second-highest shares of deaths from radiation-related cancers among 503 U.S. occupations, according to a study published in JAMA Internal Medicine. Researchers analyzed more than 12.7 million deaths from 2020 through 2024. After adjusting for age, sex and other factors, they found that radiation-related cancers accounted for 6.9% of deaths among flight attendants and 6.7% among pilots. The likely reason comes down to altitude. Commercial jets routinely cruise above 30,000 feet, where less atmosphere stands between the body and cosmic radiation, which consists of high-energy particles from the sun and deep space that can penetrate tissue and damage DNA. As a result, aircrew receive the highest average annual dose of ionizing radiation of any occupational group in the U.S., including workers in nuclear power and medical settings.

The concern centers on career-long exposure, not the occasional trip. Pilots and flight attendants accumulate an estimated 3 to 6 millisieverts of cosmic radiation each year. A traveler who takes 10 cross-country round-trip flights in a year receives about 0.4 millisieverts. To test whether radiation explained the pattern, researchers compared radiation-related cancers with cancers unrelated to radiation. Aircrew ranked near the middle for unrelated cancers, so their excess risk was specific rather than across the board. Nuclear technologists, who also face workplace radiation, ranked near the top for radiation-associated cancer deaths. Ground-based aviation workers, such as aircraft mechanics and assemblers, did not show the same elevated pattern. The study still has important limits. It couldn't measure each worker's actual radiation dose, and occupations on death certificates aren't always recorded accurately. Disrupted sleep-wake cycles and cabin-related exposures also couldn't be fully separated from radiation. For these reasons, the findings show a strong occupational pattern rather than proof that cosmic radiation caused each cancer death.

The findings also point to a regulatory gap. The Federal Aviation Administration recognizes aircrew as occupationally exposed to radiation, yet U.S. pilots and flight attendants have no federal dose limits and no federal requirement for routine radiation monitoring. Nuclear workers and aircrew in Europe, by contrast, operate under stronger radiation-protection frameworks. The study's authors argue that aircrew deserve comparable safeguards, starting with tracking cumulative exposure. Alongside these findings, some general wellness strategies are discussed for supporting the body's natural defenses. These include antioxidants such as molecular hydrogen and astaxanthin, cutting back on linoleic acid from seed oils to reduce another source of oxidative damage, and eating enough carbohydrates and protein while getting regular sunlight and movement to support cellular energy and repair. These approaches serve as everyday support for overall health. They are not treatments for radiation exposure or cancer risk.

Cutting Linoleic Acid and Adding Glycine

This caught my attention because I take this three times per day. Glycine, a simple amino acid, and cutting back on linoleic acid (LA), a fat found in many seed oils and processed foods, seem to offer many of the same benefits. When people take glycine or keep LA under 2% of their daily calories, they report less inflammation and less pain. There may even be a link to fewer migraines and better tolerance to the sun. For my patients who deal with headaches, one randomized trial stands out. People who cut LA to 1.8% of calories or less while adding omega-3 fats had four fewer headache days a month. That was twice the benefit of adding omega-3s alone. The reason I am taking this supplement is that it reduces the harmful effects of glyphosate in the body. Glyphosate is the cancer-causing weed killer used in agriculture. FYI, glycine is sweet and has no calories per se. I put it in my tea and plain yogurt.

So what's going on behind the scenes? Much of it comes down to calcium. In animal studies, glycine opens a chloride channel on immune cells, which blocks the calcium surge those cells need to launch an inflammatory attack. Oxidized LA byproducts do the opposite and fire up calcium signals in pain nerves and immune cells. Your spine plays a role too. Research in mice suggests a glycine receptor in the spinal cord works like a brake on pain. Your body turns LA into a compound called prostaglandin E2, which can switch that brake off. Two recent animal studies also suggest LA can drive a destructive type of cell death in joint cartilage. In rat cartilage, glycine was able to block it. Much of this research is still in animals, but the picture it paints is hard to ignore. Here's the practical side. Your body makes only about 3 grams of

Thanksgiving Interfaith Prayer Service

Thanksgiving is right around the corner, and it's time to take stock and offer thanks for the blessings in our lives. Brigantine's annual Interfaith Prayer Service is being hosted by St. Thomas the Apostle Church this year, on Tuesday, Nov. 24, at 7 p.m. Father Ed Namiotka, Rabbi Stephanie Breitsman, and a member of the Presbyterian Church will share the scripture readings and prayers offered in thanksgiving for the many blessings bestowed upon our community. Our music director, Mary Jane Kelso, and our choir will provide the appropriate hymns of praise and thanksgiving, and light refreshments will be served after the service. A True Spirit Coalition free-will offering will be requested. This is a wonderful opportunity for all Brigantine residents to gather in prayer, and all are encouraged and welcome to attend.

Health Tips

glycine a day, and you may be falling short by roughly 10 grams. That leaves two simple changes to consider. You can take about 10 grams of glycine daily, and you can keep LA under 2% of your daily calories by cutting back on seed oils and processed foods. These are small steps that support your body's natural healing. If you're managing a health condition or taking medication, please check with your healthcare provider before making any changes.

Sciatica and Chiropractic Care

If you've ever felt that sharp, shooting pain travel from your lower back down your leg, you know how quickly sciatica can take over your day. Chiropractic care targets the source of the problem, gently restoring proper alignment in the spine to ease pressure on the sciatic nerve. It doesn't just mask the pain. I like to tell my patients that when the joints of the spine become stuck and misaligned, the nerves around them pay the price, and freeing those joints is often where lasting relief begins. Because this approach is safe, drug-free, and non-invasive, it works well alongside your medical care and fits naturally into a holistic lifestyle. With a personalized care plan, many people find they're moving more easily and getting back to the activities and the people they love.
